

To Whom It May Concern,

I am pleased to recommend Luis for any product management role he chooses to pursue. I've had the opportunity to work closely with Luis over the past two years, during which he has played a critical role in leading our driver program across product, design, and development.

Luis brings a rare combination of ownership, cross-functional leadership, and execution. He has been responsible for driving one of our most important initiatives end-to-end, ensuring alignment between engineering, design, and operational stakeholders while consistently delivering high-quality outcomes. His ability to translate complex operational needs into clear product direction has had a meaningful impact on both our internal teams and the drivers we support.

Beyond his technical and product skillset, Luis stands out for his attitude and presence. He approaches challenges with a positive, solutions-oriented mindset and is someone people genuinely enjoy working with. Even in high-pressure situations, he maintains a calm demeanor and keeps teams focused and moving forward.

Luis is dependable, thoughtful, and deeply committed to the success of the products he owns. I would strongly recommend him for any product management role and am confident he will bring the same level of leadership, energy, and impact to his next opportunity.

Please feel free to reach out if I can provide any additional context.

Sincerely,

Mike Koleno
